

STAFFING THE PERFECT FIT®

Over the past 25 years Aerotek has grown from a small company to a world-renowned staffing organization. Throughout this impressive growth one thing has remained unchanged: our customer focus and commitment to deliver the “perfect fit” candidate.

Today Aerotek is one of six companies owned by Allegis Group, a privately-held network of staffing solution companies. Aerotek operates eight divisions and subsidiaries at more than 150 non-franchised offices across the United States, Canada and Europe that provide specialized staffing services to a wide variety of industries.

The following are highlights of the evolution of Aerotek – from its organic growth, acquisitions and name changes.

1983 Aerotek is founded in Baltimore, Maryland by entrepreneurs, Steve Bisciotti and Jim Davis.

Aerotek gets its start by supporting the engineering staffing needs of companies in the aerospace and defense industries, giving way to Aerotek’s original name and logo – Aerotek Contract Engineering.

Hard work and the early establishment of a customer-focused reputation earn Aerotek more than $1 million in revenue in its first year of operation.

Based on its successful customer-focused model, the 1980s are marked by ongoing growth throughout the United States, as well as expanding its services into industries beyond aerospace and defense.

1989 Aerotek starts an automotive division with offices based in Michigan to support the unique engineering staffing needs of automotive manufacturers and suppliers.

1990 Aerotek forms Telecommunications Services, known today as TEKsystems. TEKsystems, an IT staffing and consulting company, has been recognized as the top information technology staffing firm in the United States. (IT Services Business Report)

1993 Aerotek acquires an environmental and energy management staffing company called Onsite.

Aerotek expands for the first time outside of the United States into Europe with its first office in Slough, England.

1994 Aerotek forms a scientific division to support the technical staffing needs for the biotechnology, pharmaceutical and healthcare industries.

1995 Aerotek expands into Canada and opens its first office in Mississauga, Ontario.

1996 Onsite forms a commercial division to provide temporary staffing to businesses requiring light industrial, light technical and clerical staffing services.

1997 Aerotek creates a new professional services operating company to support the administrative and professional needs of corporations across industries. The company operates first as Option One and later changes its name to Mentor 4.

- 1998 Allegis Group becomes the official name of the parent entity of several operating companies including Aerotek, Onsite and TEKsystems.
- 2000 Onsite forms an aviation division to specialize in the placement of mechanics, technicians and specialized personnel to the aviation industry.
- 2001 Aerotek and Onsite merge divisions to combine strengths and become Onsite Companies. The company exceeds $1 billion in sales.
- 2004 Onsite Companies changes its name to Aerotek, Inc., to leverage the reputation of the Aerotek name and its association with high-quality staffing.
- For the first time, Aerotek is named the number one U.S. provider of engineering staffing by Staffing Industry Analysts.
- 2006 Mentor 4, a professional services staffing company previously operating under Allegis Group, officially becomes a division of Aerotek, and is renamed Aerotek Professional Services to capitalize on the Aerotek brand recognition.
- 2007 Allegis Group is named the second largest staffing company in the United States and the sixth largest staffing company worldwide. (Staffing Industry Analysts)
Aerotek is once again named the top U.S. provider of technical and engineering staffing. (Staffing Industry Analysts)
- 2008 Aerotek announces its acquisition of the scientific division of Kforce to strengthen the presence of Aerotek's scientific division within niche scientific industries nationwide.
Allegis Group is named the largest staffing company in the United States. (Staffing Industry Analysts)
- 2009 Allegis Group is again recognized as the largest staffing company in the United States. (Staffing Industry Analysts)
